House Swiftly Passes Large War Tax Bill

—Washington

Washington, July 20 —(AP)—A $6,139,000,000 wartime revenue bill was passed by the House and sent to the Senate today after a last-minute floor fight which resulted in levying a 90 per cent excess profits tax and a combined normal and surtax of 45 percent on corporations.

The Ways and Means committee sought to have the excess profits tax raised to 80 percent and the normal and surtax reduced to 40 percent.

On the excess profits tax increase, the committee was sustained on a voice vote.

But on the surtax revisions the House decided, by a teller vote of 160 to 160, to retain the provision of 45 percent.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the committee urged the revised corporate rates in the interest of the small corporations which were benefiting from the war program. But Rep. McLean (R-NJ) said the changes would "help these corporations which are waxing fat by this war effort."

The legislation would base about $2,400,000,000 in new taxes from corporations and almost $3,000,000,000 from individuals, primarily through steeply graduated individual surtax rates and reduced personal exemptions.

Washington, July 20 —(AP)—The House Ways and Means committee, in a last-minute change of attitude, decided today to recommend to the House a 90 per cent excess profits tax and a 40 per cent combined normal and surtax on corporations.

Shortly before the $6,143,900,000 revenue bill came before the House for final passage, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the committee announced that it had abandoned its previous schedules of 87-1/2 per cent on excess profits and 45 per cent on normal and surtaxes for corporations.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.), a committee member, had served notice he would make an attempt on the floor to obtain the 90 and 40 per cent rates, but he said that the committee's new rates were satisfactory to him.

The committee took no action on the question of postwar credits for corporations based on their excess profits taxes — a provision once approved but later discarded.

Committee members said the new corporation proposals, embodied in an amendment, were approved by a vote of 13 to 9. A previous attempt in the committee to do the same thing failed by a tie vote.

While members said they could not forecast accurately the change in the House, Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.) said the House Saturday night the changes would mean a loss of at least $350,000,000.

Under the proposal, the normal tax would be 24 per cent and the excess 16 per cent. Present percentages are 24 and 7 per cent.

Thus, the heaviest tax bill in history, estimated to boost federal taxes to the unprecedented level of $23,000,000,000, seemed assured of passage during the day and then speedy transmission to the Senate, where Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the finance committee has arranged to open hearings Thursday.

Here are principal provisions of the bill:

Individuals — present normal income tax increased from four to six per cent and surtaxes, which now range from six to 77 per cent, boosted from 13 to 82 per cent with the top bracket of 82 per cent affecting net incomes over $200,000. Personal exemptions reduced from $1,500 to $1,200 for married couples and from $750 to $500 for single persons. Collection of individual income taxes at the sources beginning in January at the rate of five per cent of the difference between the amount of each pay check or pay envelope and personal exemp-

—War in Pacific

Chungking, July 20 —(AP)—United States bombing planes blasted a Japanese airfield at Canton Saturday, planting their bombs among between 50 and 60 planes on the ground and leaving six great fires blazing, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters had announced today.

In a second attack the American airmen yesterday bombed Linchwan, Japanese base in Kiangsi province. All the plane returned safely from both raids.

The communiqué said Japanese headquarters were attacked with "excellent results" at Linchwan in this second raid upon that base. It first was attacked July 8. Canton last was attacked by U. S. bombers on July 4 when the White Cloud airbase on the outskirts of the city was the target. Today's official announcement that an airfield was attacked, without identifying it, indicated a second field was visited this time, since the Japan maintain several around most of the larger cities under their domination.

Chinese forces, inflicting major setbacks to the Japanese drive aimed at the heart of China from the southeast, have recaptured the seaports of Wenchow and Juian in Chekiang province and broken the invaders' hold on a 15-mile strip of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway by seizing Iyang and Heng-feng, the Chinese high command announced yesterday.

The official announcement said the enemy lost heavily in casualties and that large stores of booty fell into Chinese hands.

The report of these successes after a long series of Japanese gains was greeted here as the best news in weeks from the warfront.

After losing the two towns and with them their domination of the Chekiang-Kiangsi rail line the Japanese attempted a new thrust from Kwangfeng, in eastern Kiangsi, but were declared repulsed. Heng-feng fell to the Japanese on July 1 and was the last town on the railway to be captured in their drive to close the gap between their east and west columns.

In still another victory, the Chinese said their troops captured Yenhsan, southern Honan, yesterday after a five-day battle and that an attack was in progress on the nearby Japanese base at Sinyang. Yenhsan is about 110 miles between the Yangtze and Yellow rivers.

Paying tribute to the U. S. air force in China, an official Chinese statement said today its operations had considerably lessened the Japanese air threat to Chungking.

U. S. Planes Deal Japs Hard Blow in Kiska Harbor Fight

(Editors Note: This is the second of a series of stories by Staff Correspondent Keith Wheeler of the Chicago Times on action in the Aleutian Islands. Wheeler, attached to the U. S. Pacific fleet since shortly after Pearl Harbor, arrived in Alaska with a fleet unit shortly after the Japanese first struck on Dutch Harbor on June 3 and was the first accredited correspondent to reach Alaska. The Times supplied the stories to the Associated Press for use by newspapers outside of Chicago. The first of the series, released for publication by the Navy, was for Sunday morning papers.)

At Sea With the Pacific Fleet—(Delayed)—Kiska harbor may earn a place in history as the dreariest tomb ever to receive the corpse of an invader's hope to conquer the world.

It may be that Honshu's hopeful little men have chosen the foggy bay under the black peaks of Kiska's hills to launch their last serious attempt to invade and conquer the United States.

It now seems more likely they have chosen a place to die.

Midway was their first choice and they failed there. Now despite repetitious punishment by American bombers they are doggedly assembling in Kiska. If they fail here they may not have strength to try again.

Already the emperor's high-powered ships are going down at their moorings, victims of bombs falling day and night from

Asserts Planes to Decide War

Fort Smith, July 20 —(AP)—The nation whose citizens take to wings will emerge triumphant in the present war, Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of army engineers, declared today in a message to the Arkansas American Legion convention.

"And the millions of young Americans whom I have seen in training in our Army Air Forces make me certain of success," added the military leader.

Reybold originally intended to deliver the speech himself but he was detained in Washington. Col. A. M. Neilson, Little Rock district engineer, was put on the program to read it.

Praising the Russians' heroism, Reybold said nevertheless the "grim fact is that the eastern Ukraine, the Caucasus and the vital artery of the Volga river all are in peril."

"No one can breathe easy over the fate of Alexandria and Suez," while the Germans are close by, he declared.

Midway eased the Pacific situation, the general commented, but "we can still discern the sad estate of China, the danger threatening Australia and the possibility of a Japanese attack on hard-pressed Russia."

"The picture is black — and perhaps may become blacker before it becomes brighter," Reybold continued, "the point is, however, it will become brighter. The forces now in motion in this country are producing such an armed might as the world has never seen. The day will come when the American flag will again fly over the Philippines, when Pearl Harbor will be fully avenged, and when the flags of the United Nations will be raised over Berlin and Tokyo."

"The determining factor in this war will be the manpower of America," he said.

Reybold said the nation could thank the American legion for its ability to supply the new army with competent leaders because since World War 1 the legion had consistently advocated a program of preparedness, universal military training, mechanized and armored forces, and aerial strength.

"There is no doubt but that the ceaseless efforts of the American

British Holding Positions As Planes Hit Axis

—Africa

London, July 20 —(AP)—British light warships bombarded Matruh, German Marshal Erwin Rommel's advanced Egyptian sea base, on Friday and Saturday nights, the admiralty announced today.

The admiralty gave no account of the damage done, but said the answering bombardment from Axis shore batteries during the first attack was ineffective. One motor torpedo boat which attempted to interfere during the second bombardment was chased off.

The British said they had no casualties or damage in either

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Cairo, Egypt, July 20 —(AP)—The big four-motored bombers of the United States army air forces, bombers and fighters of the RAF and warships of the Royal Navy struck advanced Axis airfields and bases in a series of devastating raids and bombardments over the week end, the British announced today.

Firmly holding their positions in a week of dusty fighting on the ground in the battle for Egypt, the British reported they had captured 4,000 prisoners in the seven days of give-and-take west of El Alamein.

The attack of the heavy United States bombers, now commanded by Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, recently transferred from India, was delivered in daylight against the stronghold of Tobruk Sunday.

British air sources, reporting the action, said three fires were started in the dock area and that this blow followed a blasting attack by the RAF's medium bombers Saturday night, when other fires were started and a ship set burning.

While the United States heavyweights were mauling Tobruk the fighters and fighter-bombers of the British were carrying out one of the heaviest attacks ever delivered against an Axis airfield in the desert. This was near El Daba, close behind the front lines.

The admiralty in London told of the Royal Navy's sallies against the Axis, and said two consecutive bombardments from the sea were carried out Friday and Saturday nights against Matruh, Germany's most advanced sea base.

No details of damage were given but the admiralty said its light warships encountered inconsequential replies from Axis shore batteries and easily beat off a motor torpedo boat which tried to attack.

At least six tanks were knocked out of action by British fighter-bombers on the southern sector of the 40-mile front and many enemy aircraft were smashed by a heavy bombing attack on a German airbase west of the battle area, a communiqué said.

Five enemy aircraft, attempting to land during the raid, were reported shot down by British fighters escorting a strong force of the light bombers which carried out the assault.

The attack, which was made near Al Daba close behind the front, was described as one of the biggest ever carried out by the RAF against an enemy desert airfield. A large number of planes was involved on each side, and about a third of the German aircraft on the ground was reported destroyed or damaged.

Four of the planes shot down as they were attempting to land were the big Junkers 52 transports used by German Marshal Erwin Rommel to bring in reserves from across the Mediterranean. The fifth was a dive bomber.

Postoffice's Steep Drive Being Levelled

The government apparently is getting tired of that steep driveway on the east side of Hope postoffice—where cars leaving the building area to enter Walnut street scrape tail-pipes and bumpers on the concrete.

Today a contractor began tearing up the driveway preparatory to changing the grade so motor traffic can negotiate the incline safely. Traffic meanwhile is using the Second street driveway to get to the rear of the government building.

Hope Boy Missing in Action

Lt. Percy Ramsey of Hope was this week-end officially listed as missing in action according to a letter received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Ramsey, from the War Department.

The War Department's letter said Lt. Ramsey of the Army Air Corps, had been missing since Bataan Peninsula in the Philippines capitulated to the Japanese.

Lt. Ramsey graduated from Hope High School and attended Henderson State Teachers College. He was a star athlete at both institutions.

14 Enroll in Nurses' Course

In response to the call for 100,000 Nurse's Aides issued by the Office of Civilian Defense and the American Red Cross, 14 local women this morning began an intensive 80-hour training course under the instruction of Mrs. Elizabeth Woolson, superintendent of Julia Chester Hospital. The second part of the course will consist of 45 hours of supervised training in the wards of the hospital.

On completing this course, the Nurse's Aides will serve in hospitals, clinics and other health agencies, and will relieve trained nurses of routine work, and free them for the more technical duties for which they are trained. By helping maintain our local civilian health services, the Nurse's Aides will be doing an invaluable piece of community work.

Legion Meet Draws 1,000

Fort Smith, July 20 —(AP)—Approximately 1,000 cane-swinging, fun-loving legionnaire delegates and nearly 400 Legion Auxiliary members were in Fort Smith today as the 24th annual convention of the Arkansas department of the American legion got down to business.

Biggest even on the day's program was the review of a reinforced battalion of the Sixth Armored Division this afternoon, in which 200 vehicles and hundreds of soldiers demonstrated to the soldiers of World War I, Uncle Sam's blitzkrieg weapons of World War II.

Business sessions of the legion were being conducted by Commander Neill Reed, Blytheville.

A highlight of the auxiliary session was the memorial service at the high school stadium last night when 3,000 persons saw the auxiliary pay tribute to the "unknown soldiers" in an impressive ceremony.

Russians Set Stage for Final Stand on Don

—Europe

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, July 20 —(AP)—The Red Army fell back toward Rostov in the gigantic, wasting battle of the Don steps today as the Germans rushed up superior numbers of men, tanks and other weapons in an impressive bid for that key to Caucasus.

Marshal Semyon Timoshenko was assembling all his available forces in an orderly retreat for a stand somewhere along a 40-mile stretch from abandoned Voroshilovgrad to the battleground south of Millerovo.

While the stage thus was being set for a momentous new struggle the Russians reported significant new successes around their anchor bastion of Voronezh to the north which now resembled a doubled fist in the German flank.

In hand-to-hand fighting the Russians took one main German bridgehead pointed across the Don at Voronezh after a heavy defeat of the invaders' 75th division.

Other counterattacking defenders of the city grappled with the Germans south and west of Voronezh on the banks of the Don.

(This appeared to mean that the Germans had been driven back from the city's environs on all the sides. Previous dispatches have indicated the Germans had been routed to the north of the city and held at bay to the south; but had held on to the western outskirts. Voronezh is about 10 miles east of the Don.)

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press War Editor
Rostov, whose armed citizenry helped the Russian army drive out the Germans eight months ago, was menaced anew today as Hitler's 1942 offensive, repulsed at Voronezh and checked momentarily toward the east, veered south in a tremendous onslaught which forced the Russians back toward the gateway to the Caucasus.

On the other fronts of the world at war:

The British, holding newly-won gains in the Egyptian desert, announced they captured 4,000 Germans and Italians in last week's fighting west of El Alamein;

The RAF's big four-motor bombers battered the Vegesack submarine building yards, 10 miles from Bremen;

The United States Air Force in China smashed at the Japanese airfield at Canton and the invaders' base at Linchwan in Kiangsi province.

Driving through Voroshilovgrad, 100 miles north of Rostov, and Millerovo, on the Rostov-Moscow rail line, the Germans were converging upon the juncture of the rail line and the Donets river at Kamensk. Rostov lies 85 miles to the south.

Although the Russians had wrested back the initiative at Voronezh, on the northern flank to the 300-mile battle line through the grain-covered steppes of the Don's big bend, they declared the Nazi thrust to the south a serious threat.

United States and British-made tanks and planes were thrown into the fight in an attempt to stem the Axis onrush.

"To the south of Millerovo," the Russian communiqué reported, "our troops engaged in a fierce defensive battle against advancing German fascist troops."

In one sector the Germans drove a wedge into our positions. With a blow from the flank, our troops frustrated the enemy attempt to break our defenses.

At Voronezh, the Russian communiqué said "Our troops are waging stubborn battles with the enemy who are now on the defensive."

The Red Army reported killing 1,500 Germans in street fighting for one suburban town, and said it recaptured another "important inhabited locality," and drove the Germans from one of their principal bridgeheads across the Don.

The increasing show of Russian power at Voronezh, coupled with German reports of large Red Army troop concentrations in that area, indicated that a strong Soviet counter offensive against the extended flank of the German Don valley drive might be in the making.

Possible Red Counter Attack at Voronezh Indicated

Russian Rear Guard Putting Up Heroic Fight

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

The Hitlerites have continued a slow but inevitable advance on the southern Russian front during the week-end, and their occupation of the hotly contested railway junction of Voroshilovgrad has greatly increased the threat to Rostov, the western gatepost of the Caucasus, some hundred miles to the south.

The saving grace from the Allied standpoint rests in the fact that the Red withdrawal is orderly and their fierce resistance is draining the life - blood of the enemy. The gods of war still gamble the Soviet's vast spaces against Herr Hitler's short and fleeting time.

Can the Bolsheviks hold the German invasion until the winter, or some fortuitous military development, makes it too late for the Nazis to break into the Caucasus this year? The Red position is exceedingly grave, but the Allies now have a right to hope that Hitler can be held.

The Russian rear - guard is putting up a heroic fight in order to give the main body of troops a chance to pull back without disorder and make a stand in the rear position, but it also is exacting a terrible toll from the Germans.

While the spectacular Nazi advance is being made chiefly in the great eastward bend of the Don river, I call your attention to the position at the city of Voronezh, a strategic railway junction on the Don river to the north of the main advance. There has been protracted and fierce fighting there, and the reason is this:

It is apparent that Hitler's strategy for his great drive against the Caucasus provided that he hold his line against the Russians on the north while he smashed at the southern extremity with his great army of a million fresh and newly equipped troops. Now Voronezh is the anchor to which Nazi General Von Bock badly wants to attach his left wing, because there is danger that the Russians may launch a counter-offensive from the point, thereby endangering Von Bock's left flank and consequently his entire battle line. Indeed, the Nazis themselves report the heavy Red concentrations near Voronezh, indicating the possibilities of such an offensive.

Because this situation we may expect the bloody conflict to continue for possession of Voronezh and if the Reds are able to maintain their position we may see a Soviet counter - blow launched through there in due course. The time for such an attack would not seem to be ripe yet. That will come, if at all, when the Germans have penetrated deeper, thereby increasing their heavy losses in men and material and lengthening their lines of communication.

U. S. Planes

Another Catalina got two near misses on a large destroyer with 500-pounders and another did the same with a light cruiser. In their turn the Japs were doing well against the bombers. Anti-aircraft, which is not particularly damaging to most fast combat planes, is brutally punishing to ships as large and slow as the Catalinas.

In the harbor that day three of the Japs' huge Kawanishi four-engine flying boats lay moored, evidence that the Japs hold serious intentions of moving in to stay. One Catalina dropped low enough to strafe the cumbersome flying hayrakes and left them burning.

The Japs showed signs of discouragement and their ships began to get underway. A Cat delivered its load on the moving ships and flew on out to Attu, the last island of the intercontinental stepping stones.

By night the bombers noted evidence the Japs planned a permanent occupation. Attu showed signs of construction work and shore-based Nakajima 97 fighters rose from Kiska to meet the American craft. The harbor was empty of ships that night, but next day they came back, appearing in increasing numbers throughout the daylight hours.

By night Kiska's harbor held five heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, ten destroyers, two submarines, nine cargo and transport vessels, and a dozen Kawanishi flying boats, seaplanes and land based observation and fighter aircraft haunted the murky sky. Other ships were sighted arriving from the south.

The fog closed in tight and stayed most of the day and bombers had to drop their loads through mist. When the mist rolled back two Catalinas dropped down to a thousand feet and dumped a pair of heavy bombs each on a destroyer and light cruiser. All were punishing near misses.

Both Catalinas were hit by anti-aircraft fragments.

The fortress bombers, working over the harbor, discovered still more evidence of a permanent establishment when ack ack fire from the ships got support from gun emplacements on the hills.

At Attu the Catalinas chased a Jap landing party through the brush, bombing their encampment and machine-gunning personnel. At Kiska they blew up the radio station already erected on the beach.

Another Liberator was lost during the day, but the remainder made direct hits on two cruisers and a destroyer and left them burning.

The Catalinas worked around the clock. One trip provoked a mighty explosion and many large fires among the Jap ships.

Next day a landing party on Kiska was burning off brush on the island's southeast cape, apparently intending to make a permanent landing field. The Japs were taking heavy punishment but showed no signs of quitting.

A torpedo carrying Catalina varied its routine by attacking a heavy cruiser standing up to Kiska from the south. He came in low, made a long ocean run and launched his "tin fish." It was a clean hit.

Whether she sank is a matter for historians to record. The plane didn't wait to see.

The fight goes on through the gloom of night and the practically identical gloom of day. No battle ever fought witnessed conditions so viciously unfriendly to both sides.

Thus proceeds the war of the mists. When it ends the Jap dream of conquest may well end with it.

Legionnaires are ready to give all their time, money and work to the war effort, national adjutant Frank E. Samuel of Indianapolis said in a speech today.

"They can have all our gasoline and all of our sugar and all of our tires," Samuel declared. "We will ask nothing but to be certain that as we live and as our boys in the fighting lines give, what is given is put to the best possible use for winning the war."

Describing the legion as "a group of middle-aged American citizens who have lived and fought through one war and have some little knowledge of what has to be done," Samuel said the veterans ask only an opportunity to serve.

Job Printing Listed as Consumer Service

Little Rock, July 20 —(AP)—Job printing when sold to an ultimate consumer other than an industrial or commercial user, is a consumer service and as such is covered by price regulation 108 of the OPA said today.

Job printers must list services they render to the ultimate consumer - such as printing wedding invitations and calling cards - and deliver it to their rationing boards by September 10, the OPA statement said. The list must carry the printer's ceiling prices, which the OPA said were the highest prices charged for such service in March.

The agency said rates and charges were exempt if the printer was "engaged in the business of publishing, printing, typesetting, platemaking and binding and rendering related service in connection with books, magazines, newspapers and periodicals."

BREAKFAST IN HALIFAX

CHAPTER XI

THE motors broke into a sullen roar and the big plane started down the runway to turn into the flare path. Clyde Dawson and Carole Fiske watched the lights of the Montreal airport sink away below them. Up and up they rose until the plane emerged into a mystic world whose dome was painted with moonlight and whose floor was a sea of fluffy, rolling saupouds.

"Did you really get the message for me from Darwin?"

"I did," he answered.

Dawson reached into his inside coat pocket and withdrew a wallet. From it he took a reprint of the snapshot given him by the condemned man just before the death march.

The girl took it from his hand and held it up to the moonlight entering the window.

Dawson, watching her intently, suddenly felt the frustration all men feel in face of feminine tears. Silently he saw her lower the picture and turn her glistening eyes to the window. He knew now that this girl loved Darwin Lemoy.

Sharp on schedule, the TCA plane circled the Moncton, N. B., airport at 5:10 a. m. As it landed, Dawson leaned over to the girl.

"Come along," he said gently, "I'll buy you a cup of coffee."

Carole Fiske looked at him strangely. Then she unfastened the safety belt.

"Thank you, I will."

In the airport restaurant Dawson waited until she had finished her beverage.

"Tell me," he asked, "how did you know my name? I didn't mention it in Chicago..."

"John knew who you were—he told me."

Dawson felt his pulse quicken. This was a situation he hadn't bargained for. His present plan—in fact, the most important aspect of his whole investigation depended on her NOT knowing his identity. Paul Dexel must have cabled from the train that he, Dawson, was bound for Canada. He had probably added the investigator's description.

"And what did the crude lug have to say about me?" she asked, calmly sipping at his coffee.

"That you are Clyde Dawson—an international double-crosser, a renegade of both sides in this war who sells to the highest bidder... that you have somehow secured inside information about our organization and are working a type of blackmail scheme on Darwin Lemoy—the snapshot proves it."

Dawson breathed a sigh of relief. This was a break—a beauty if ever he had one. John, of course, had lied to the girl... unless the girl knew the truth and was deliberately lying to throw him off the track.

EXCUSING himself, Dawson found a phone, rushed through a call to the Canadian Intelligence Bureau at Halifax, and queried the agent on duty about Paul Dexel. It was as he had expected—the man had simply laughed off all questions. They had nothing on him, he claimed, and he had no intention, it seemed, of altering that condition. In fact, the agent added with a touch of sarcasm, the Halifax Bureau really didn't know enough about him, in case to quiz the prisoner intelligently. For that part they really didn't have enough to hold him.

"Okay, I'll attend to that part of it for you," Dawson said. "I haven't time to go into detail but the plane should land at Dartmouth about 6:15. Which means that a girl and I will likely be having breakfast together in the Nov. Scotian Hotel between 7 and 7:30 in the main dining room. Now listen closely and do exactly what I tell you..."

For the remainder of the flight, Dawson stayed clear of the one topic in which they were mutually interested. Anyway, the girl seemed unwilling to chat.

The plane was 15 minutes late landing at Dartmouth, just across the harbor from Halifax. In the airline autobus while crossing on the ferry, Dawson struck up conversation again.

"Would you care to have breakfast with me?"

"Very well," she said unenthusiastically.

The hotel lobby was surprisingly busy for the early hour. Dawson ushered the girl into the dining room opposite the main entrance, and placed her so she was facing the entrance. He selected the chair at the four-place table that allowed him a side view of the entrance.

The girl's eyes were fixed on him.

"You're a strange man—I find it..." the sentence choked off in her throat. Dawson saw her staring wildly at the entrance and knew without turning his head that she had seen Paul Dexel. There would, of course, be agents with him.

Carole Fiske turned in her chair, face white as chalk:

"Oh God," she cried, "it can't be—Paul Dexel was murdered... Darwin told..."

Dawson leaned over, quickly, slid an arm around her waist and kissed her on the cheek.

In the entrance, Paul Dexel tugged madly against the restraining arms of the agents:

"You rotten double-crosser," he shrieked, "I'll cut your tongue out for this!"

CONSCIOUS that all in the dining room had ceased eating while the waiters stared in frank amazement, Dawson resumed his seat as Dexel was being escorted from the doorway.

"Why did you do that?" her voice came in a low hiss.

"I'm funny that way," Dawson shrugged. "Ever since I was only so high I've done that to pretty girls..."

"Shut up!" Carole Fiske cut in, case to quiz the prisoner intelligently. For the benefit of the man in the doorway...

"Paul Dexel—you mentioned his name when you saw him—remember?" Dawson was serious now.

"All right, Paul Dexel, Answer my question!"

"To make him spill all he knows about you and your mob. And if you're wise you'll do some talking in your own..."

In one quick movement the girl had picked up her cup of coffee and flipped the contents directly into the investigator's face. As he lurched back, she rose and called for the headwaiter.

"This man has insistently annoyed me throughout a plane trip and now at breakfast I cannot stand his insults any longer. I..."

Putting her hand to her eyes and sobbing audibly, she ran for the door.

Dawson threw aside the napkin with which he had been wiping his face and started after her.

"You little wildcat!" he muttered.

The headwaiter grabbed him by the arm and two army officers jumped up from a nearby table, planting themselves in front of Dawson.

"Out of my way, gentlemen," he latter spoke quickly. "That girl is trying to escape..."

"Quite evidently she is," the headwaiter interrupted. "Just wait a minute for the hotel detective, please. He'll want to ask you some questions."

"Don't waste precious time," snapped Dawson, "here are my credentials..." As he reached into his inside pocket a blank look came over his face. Suddenly he laughed.

"That's out—my credentials are in my suitcase, so all I can do is admit I'm a lowdown masher and a menace to young ladies."

One Simple Lesson Needed

(Last of a Series)

By JACK STINNETT
Washington—Let's start with the premise that Leon Henderson is about as capable, efficient and hard-working as any man that could be found for director of the Office of Price Administration.

That's a fair premise, because an outspoken opponent of the price control act said on the floor of the House the other day that personalities don't enter into this scrap, that so far as he was concerned, "Henderson is perhaps as good as anybody you can get (for the job of director)." This isn't an isolated opinion of anti-OPA men.

Then why has so much of the storm over anti-inflation fallen on Henderson's head?

Partly because of Henderson. Sometimes in his dealings with Congress, the public, or government officials, he's a dead ringer for Leo Durocher when the latter thinks an umpire has turned a blind eye in letting a play on the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Slap Henderson down and he snaps back. Smashing under the House vote cutting his appropriation to $75,000,000 when he had asked three times that and the Budget Bureau had said OPA should have $166,000,000, Henderson publicly accused Congress of puncturing holes in the inflation ceiling. He did it on the day before the Senate appropriations committee was to take up the House measure. With a little judicious handling the committee might have been convinced the lower house was in error.

That's one instance. Give Henderson a job to do and patronage, prerogative and precedent—the three sacred cows of politics—are soon hog-tied.

There are other reasons why Henderson is under fire. The price control act is a personalized thing. If a manufacturer can't get materials to make his product, he doesn't blame Donald Nelson, he blames priorities, an intangible thing brought about by the war.

But if the owner of a little store has the only 5-cent spool of thread in town and everyone is clamoring for it, and he has to sell it for 5 cents instead of two bits, then it's because of Leon Henderson.

An American can understand not being able to get something he needs because there's a law against it; but when he can't dispose of something he owns at whatever he can get for it, that's somebody's fault.

Too often, too, OPA's explanation to the public has been bad. In the eastern states, few have been made to understand that the X-card, etc., system of gasoline rationing was merely a stop-gap measure and that later regulations would be improved.

When more than 2,000 investigators took the field and visited "several thousand filling stations" and found 175 alleged violators, OPA stormed against chiselers. A psychologist could have told OPA that it should have been patting the public on the back for its whole-hearted support of gas rationing. The "dishonest fringe" in any business is greater than that.

That wasn't Henderson. It was his department. But the department is Henderson, so far as the wrath of the public and Congress is concerned.

Sugar from sugar beets grown in the United States looks, tastes and is chemically identical to sugar from cane.

Comer Routon Dies Suddenly

Funeral services for Dr. B. Comer Routon, 28 year old former Hope resident who died of an heart attack while enroute from St. Louis to Ashdown, will be held here at the Herndon-Cornelius funeral home at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Sam Riccobene, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Ashdown will be in charge.

A native of Hope he was a graduate of the University of Arkansas Medical School and served his internship at St. Anthony hospital and the University hospital at Oklahoma City.

He practiced medicine at Ashdown since July 1941 and was active in civic affairs. He also was an officer of the Little River Medical Association.

He is survived by his wife and a small daughter, Jane, of Ashdown, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Routon of Hope, a brother, Charles Routon, Jr., of Little Rock.

Pallbearers: W. Y. Moss, Olin Smith and J. R. Burrus of Ashdown; Edgar Arnett, Dr. John Jones and Dr. Edward McKay of Texarkana.

Kerr Is Nominated in Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, July 20 —(AP)—Robert S. Kerr, Democratic national committeeman won his party's nomination for governor by a plurality of 10,427 votes, complete official returns of last Tuesday's primary election showed today.

Kerr, an Oklahoma City independent oil man, received 147,169 votes to 136,742 for second place Gomer Smith, Oklahoma City attorney and former congressman.

Wilburn Cartwright, chairman of the House Roads committee, and veteran of eight consecutive terms in congress, was the only one of eight Oklahoma congressmen seeking re-election to meet defeat.

Cartwright lost by 1,416 votes to Paul Stewart, Antlers publisher and state senator, who received 30,802 votes to Cartwright's 29,186.

WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER AT

An Emergency Statement to the People of the United States

How can you help? The answer is on this page. I hope every American citizen will read it and act on it.

D. H. Nelson, CHAIRMAN, WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

There is enough iron and steel on farms alone, if used with other materials, to make:

Twice as many battleships as there are in the whole world today, or Enough 2000-pound bombs to drop three per minute from big bombers incessantly for more than three years.

Locating and collecting this scrap is going to require a canvass of every house and every farm. Even one old shovel will help make 4 hand grenades.

We have set up the machinery for this, but it is not perfect. It is a problem that can be licked only by American resourcefulness, American organization ability, American muscle and American will to win.

We now have in every state a State Salvage Committee of volunteers working directly under the governor.

Under these state committees we have county committees and local committees. We have special industrial committees working with executives of plants in 421 industrial centers.

In rural communities we have the County War Boards. These committees can tell you the quickest way to get your Junk into action.

In behalf of the governor and the state committee we urge every committee to organize itself into a band of "Salvage Commandos."

You can either sell your scrap to a Junk dealer or you can give it to a charity, which in turn will sell it to a Junk dealer who performs an important function by sorting it, grading it, packing it and shipping it to the right place.

We urge local charities and civic organizations to cooperate with the Local Salvage Committee and devise a plan of action and collection.

We urge the scrap dealer to cooperate as fast as he can in the collection and shipment of materials.

We urge industrial executives to appoint Salvage Managers who have both the responsibility and authority to salvage obsolete machinery, tools and dies.

We urge every farmer and every householder in America to act at once.

Go over your premises with a fine tooth comb. If you have already turned in your scrap, look again—you'll probably find more.

If you do not have enough of your own to warrant someone coming after it, form a neighborhood pool, or take it yourself to the nearest collection point.

If there is an old heater or boiler in your basement too heavy for you to move, get your neighbors to help you.

This is a People's job. It is something you can do without interfering with other war work or personal duties.

It is not enough to pile up a little stuff and expect somebody to come and get it. Most of the work is being done by patriotic volunteers with inadequate facilities. They need your help in collecting scrap material in the largest possible amounts and in getting it to the right place.

It is a direct and personal obligation to all of our boys on all fronts.

You may think, "My little bit" won't help, but your "little bit" multiplied thousands and millions of times can create a mountain of raw material which can actually turn the tide.

The situation is serious. Your help is needed now.

HOW SCRAP IRON AND STEEL GO TO WAR

The steel used in our war machines is made by melting together

1. Pig iron (about 50%)
2. Scrap generated in the steel plant in the process of steelmaking (about 25%)
3. Scrap purchased from outside Junk sources (about 25%)

We have plenty of iron ore to make the pig iron needed. But our furnaces operate faster when there is plenty of scrap to mix with the pig iron.

This so-called "scrap" which goes into the furnaces to make the steel for tanks, ships and guns is actually refined steel—with most impurities removed. Some of the finest quality steels are made 100% from scrap.

The iron and steel scrap which you collect is bought by the steel mills from scrap dealers at established government-controlled prices.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

JUNK needed for War

Scrap Iron and Steel

Needed for tanks, ships, guns—all machines and arms of war.

Other Metals—Rubber—Rags
—Manila Rope—Burlap Bags

Needed to make bombs, fuses, binoculars, planes, tires for jeeps, gas masks, barrage balloons, parachute flares, sandbags.

HOW TO TURN IT IN

Sell to a Junk dealer . . . Give to a charity . . . Take it yourself to nearest collection point . . . or consult your Local Salvage Committee—

Phone: 87, 257, 792

If you live on a farm, phone or write your County War Board or consult your farm implement dealer.

WASTE FATS—After they have served maximum cooking use. Strain into a large tin can and sell to your meat dealer after you have collected a pound or more.

TIN CANS—Wanted only in areas close to destitute plants, as announced locally.

WASTE PAPER—Needed only as announced by local committees.

American Ryder Cup Squad Holds a 2 to 1 Edge

Detroit, July 20 —(AP)—The American Ryder Cup squad holds a 2 to 1 advantage over challenge teams in the war-time domestic version of what was golf's big international series, but the challengers will get an opportunity to square the count next year.

After Craig Wood's coppers had completed a 10 to 5 rout of Walter Hagen's challengers yesterday by splitting the ten singles matches, Fred Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament manager, said the matches would be played again in 1943, most likely in Detroit. The Red Cross will receive $25,000 from this year's show; two previous events here yielded $30,000.

As the Cuppers swept all five foursome matches Saturday, there wasn't much chance for the challengers over the 6,957-yard Oakland Hills course in yesterday's singles. But Henry Picard, Sammy Byrd and Lighthouse Harry Cooper won their matches, and four other challengers broke even. The cup team victors were Wood, Ed Dudley and Sergi. Vic Ghezzi.

Most of the 8,000 customers concentrated, however, on the 30-hole hand-to-hand fight between Blazin's Ben Hogan of the Cuppers and Young Melvin (Chick) Harbert, winter circuit sensation from Battle Creek, Mich. In effect, it was a rematch of the 18-hole playoff of the Texas open last winter that Harbert won. This one was a draw.

What ever happened to that slump that was going to cost the Yanks the pennant a couple of weeks ago? The way they murdered the West, 1 out of 13, in the home stand they just ended, the boys would like to know if they were just trying to make it look good before.

Crackers Just Behind Rocks

By The Associated Press
Atlanta's rejuvenated Crackers moved into a virtual tie for the Southern Association lead, just four percentage points behind Little Rock Sunday when Memphis and Atlanta split a double header while the Pebs were taking a double busting from the Lookouts.

The Crackers took the first game 4-1 behind the eight-hit pitching of Rene Cortes and Jim Mertz. Atlanta outlit the Chiefs again in the second game but lost 2-0. Memphis scored two runs in the first inning after two men were out.

Little Rock's losses to Chattanooga, now in seventh place, were by 8-5 and 8-2 scores. Al Moran, one of the league's five best pitchers, was bombarded for 13 hits in six innings and was blamed with losing the first. Kennedy was the winner for the Lookouts. Lou Bevil held the Pebs to eight hits to win the second while his teammates were shellacking Joe Callahan and Charles Hawley for 12 safeties. Bevil and Joe Gomez had perfect days at the plate with seven of the 12 Lookout hits credited to them.

Cellar-dwelling Knoxville threw the fifth-place New Orleans Pebs overboard on both ends of a double header, 8-6 and 4-3.

The second game was played under a New Orleans protest following a disputed decision in the first inning.

Taking the first 1-10 and the second 10-1, Nashville held its spot in the four-way race for first place at the expense of Birmingham's lowly Barons.

No Place Like Home to Yanks and Dodgers

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
It may be only a half yard but there's no place like home, especially to the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers, who are finding the path toward major league pennants rockiest in foreign climes.

The Yankees, who discovered a decided lack of hospitality the last time they ventured forth, concluded an enjoyable stay in their own back yard yesterday by walloping the Chicago White Sox twice and extending their winning streak to nine games.

Tomorrow they open another swing through the dangerous western sector, armed with a ten-game lead.

Brooklyn's National League pace setters, who stop off on their way home tonight to make up a game with the Pittsburgh Pirates, found the Cardinals somewhat tougher in St. Louis than they've been at Ebbets field.

The Dodgers were more than holding their own on this trip until they visited St. Louis, where the Cards grabbed three games out of four, which reduced the margin between the two to half a dozen games.

The Yankees produced the surprise of the season when they suddenly lost one cog of their machine, picked up another, and rambled merrily on.

Catcher Buddy Rosar, elevated to a regular starting post because of Bill Dickey's shoulder injury, jumped the club and went home to Buffalo to try for a policeman's job, leaving the Yanks with only one able-bodied backstop, Rookie Ed Kearse.

The Yanks promptly signed Rolfe Hemsley, who was cut loose by the Cincinnati Reds only two days before. A .13 hitter at Cincinnati, Hemsley caught both games as the Yankees swamped the White Sox, 9-2 and 12-0, and banded five hits in eight trips to the plate.

Red Ruffing blanked the White Sox on four hits in the second game and clubbed a home run and two singles, driving in four runs.

Joe DiMaggio extended his batting streak of 17 games with his 14th homer, a double and two singles.

At St. Louis, the Cardinals beat Whitlow Wyatt and the Dodgers, 8-5, in the opener, but it took an 11th inning homer by Enos Slaughter to decide the nightcap, 7-6, and each team lost a valuable hand.

Pete Reiser, Dodger center fielder and current major league batting leader, crashed into the wall attempting to field Slaughter's smash inside the park. He was taken to a hospital, where physicians said he would be kept several days for treatment of a moderate concussion.

Mort Cooper, who pitched his 12th win for the Cards in the first game, suffered a recurrence of an old arm ailment and retired in the eighth inning. He was told to remain out of action a week or ten days.

The Pittsburgh Pirates moved into fifth place ahead of the Chicago Cubs by beating the Boston Braves, 6-7 and 9-0.

Bucky Walters pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-3 triumph over the New York Giants in one game, but the Giants tripped the Reds and Johnny Vander Meer, 4-3, in the other.

Chicago and Philadelphia divided their doubleheader, the Phils winning the first game, 8-5, and the Cubs the second, 8-4.

At Boston, the Cleveland Indians caught the Red Sox with two of their stars, Ted Williams and Bobby Doerr, on the sidelines and won the first game, 10-7, with a three-run rally in the 12th inning and the second, 4-0, on the three-hit pitching of Mel Harder.

The St. Louis Browns snapped a five-game winning streak for the Washington Senators, taking a double bill, 5-3 and 6-3.

The Detroit Tigers halted their six-game losing streak by downing the Philadelphia Athletics, 2-1, but the A's bounced back to take the nightcap, 4-3.

2 Minor Automobile Wrecks in Hope

An automobile driven by Mrs. R. O. Woodall of Ashdown was considerably damaged here over the week-end when it collided with another at Third and Edgewood. The auto also struck a fire plug causing damage.

Occupants escaped injury.

Two other automobiles driven by F. M. Leggett and J. F. Watson collided at North Elm and Division streets causing minor damage. Both men were unhurt.

City police investigated both accidents.

Why I am buying bonds

AND STAMPS

to win the war

"The American Army is rapidly becoming the best armed, best equipped, best fed fighting machine in the world. A 10-cent War Savings Stamp buys three bullets, and this machine gun fires 900 of them a minute. I know one way I can do my part—Buy Till It Hurts."

"I know that to carry the war to the enemy, we will need an air force and a navy bigger than all others combined. An air force and a navy like that will cost at least $65,909,000,000. I know one way I can help—Buy Till It Hurts."

"I know this is a machine war. I know the American Army has the hardest striking power of any in the world. Tanks, jeeps and other ordnance are costing at least $45,347,000,000. I know one way I can surely help—Buy Till It Hurts."

To Help Win the War and to speed the President's program for 185,000 planes in '42 and '43, Arkansas is preparing to "GIVE TILL IT HURTS" of its limited reserves of bauxite.

The rate of bauxite production in Arkansas today is nearly NINE TIMES the production of 1938, with every prospect of further increase.

For twenty years we have been preaching and practicing conservation of these reserves for just such an emergency.

Conservation in the past has safeguarded the present, and we are proud of this record.

to win the peace

"I know where I'll get work after the war and where my son will find a job when he gets back. We'll be making all the things people want and can't get now. What will they use for money? ... the Bonds and Stamps we are all buying today. Buy Your Tomorrow Today!"

"I know what my wife will want when the U-boats have been put on ice. She'll want, among other things, a new refrigerator. What will we use for money? ... the War Bonds and Stamps we are all buying today. Buy Your Tomorrow Today!"

"I know what we'll all want when Johnnie comes riding home. We'll want new automobiles with all the improvements the war will bring in motors, bodies, mileage. What will we use for money? You know what we'll use. Buy Your Tomorrow Today!"

To Enjoy the Peace, the American people will find an annual production capacity of 2,100,000,000 pounds of aluminum which industrial designers are already planning to use in producing better automobiles, better household appliances, better construction, better methods of packaging.

Those far-sighted people who buy War Bonds and Stamps today will have the wherewithal with which to buy these things tomorrow. On that day when peace comes, the American people will not be satisfied with substitutes. They will want more and better things which will create more jobs in the post-war world.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Proposed by the General Assembly and filed in the office of the Secretary of State on the 27th day of March, 1941.

IT IS RESOLVED BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, A MAJORITY OF BOTH HOUSES AGREEING THERETO: THAT THE FOLLOWING IS HEREBY PROPOSED AS AN AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, AND THE SAME BEING SUBMITTED TO THE ELECTIONS OF THE STATE FOR APPROVAL OR REJECTION AT THE NEXT GENERAL ELECTION FOR SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES, IF A MAJORITY OF THE ELECTORS VOTING THEREON ADOPT SUCH AMENDMENT, THE SAME SHALL BECOME A PART OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, TO-WIT:

Section 1. Whenever in any county where there is located a public hospital owned by such county or by any municipal corporation therein, whether such hospital be operated by such county or municipal corporation or by a benevolent association as the agent or lessee of such county or municipal corporation, one hundred or more electors of such county shall file a petition with the county judge asking that an annual tax on real and personal property in such county be levied for the purpose of maintaining, operating and supporting such hospital and shall specify a rate of taxation not exceeding one mill on the dollar of the assessed value of real and personal property in the county. The question as to whether such tax shall be levied shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county at a general election. Such petition must be filed at least thirty days prior to the election at which it will be submitted to the voters. The county judge upon the filing of such petition shall notify the board of election commissioners thereof and the county board of election commissioners shall cause the question to be placed upon the ballot in substantially the following form:

FOR a mill tax on real and personal property to be used for maintenance, operation and support of a public hospital.

AGAINST a Mill tax on real and personal property to be used for maintenance, operation and support of a public hospital.

Section 2. The election commissioners shall certify to the county judge the result of the vote and if a majority of the qualified electors voting on the question at such election vote in favor of the specified tax then it shall thereafter be continually levied and collected as other general taxes of such county are levied and collected. The result of the election shall be proclaimed by the county judge by publication for one insertion in some newspaper published and having a bona fide circulation in such county. The result so proclaimed shall be conclusive unless attacked in the courts within thirty days and after the election it shall not be competent to attack the result thereof on the ground that any signers of the petition were not qualified electors. The proceeds of any tax so voted shall upon the settlement of the collecting officer be paid by the treasurer of the county to the treasurer of such hospital to be used by such treasurer in the maintenance, operation and support of such institution; provided that any county where there may be more than one hospital qualified to receive the proceeds of such tax, the quorum court at its meeting for the purpose of adopting the county's budget, shall provide for the apportionment of the proceeds of said tax between the institutions so qualified according to the respective needs.

Section 3. Whenever one hundred or more electors in any county having a hospital tax in force shall file a petition with the county judge asking that such tax be raised, reduced or abolished, the question shall be submitted to the qualified electors at a general election. Such petition must be filed at least thirty days prior to the election at which it will be submitted to the voters. The ballot shall follow, as far as practically the form set out in Section 1 hereof, and the result shall be certified and proclaimed as provided in Section 2 hereof and shall be conclusive in like manner. The tax shall be lowered, raised or abolished as the case may be, according to the majority of qualified electors voting on the question at such election, provided, however, that it shall not be raised more than one mill on the dollar, if lowered or raised the rate shall thereafter be continually levied and collected and the proceeds used in the manner and for the purposes provided in Section 2 hereof.

Section 4. This amendment shall be self executing and shall become a part of the constitution of the State of Arkansas when approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon at the next general election.

Witness my hand and Seal this 10th day of April, 1942.
C. G. HALL,
Secretary of State.

Dave Terry The Man and Dave Terry The Public Official

The Records Of BOTH are Open That All May SEE and READ

Dave Terry The Man

Dave Terry's Political history is unique. In his 12 years of public life he has not only retained the respect and confidence of his original supporters but has constantly widened the area of his friendship and influence. There has never been a serious rift among these supporters.

The same people in Little Rock who supported him for school director in 1930 supported him for the legislature in 1932 and for Congress in 1933. The Fifth District has sent him to Congress five consecutive times and its voters are still supporting him in his race for the United States Senate. They know that his character, his private life, and public record are unassailable; that he is safe and dependable.

Much of Dave Terry's adult life has been devoted to unselfish public service. A native of Little Rock, and a graduate of the Law Department of the University of Arkansas, he volunteered for service in World War I as a private and later was commissioned an officer. For over 25 years he has been actively identified with the Little Rock Boys' Club, one of the finest in the country.

As a director of the Little Rock School Board he devoted his energy and ability toward building up the local school system, one of the best managed in the United States.

When elected to the General Assembly from Pulaski County he quickly established himself as a leader in this body for right and for progress.

In 1933 he was elected to Congress by the voters of the Fifth District and has represented them continuously since then. His ability and dependability were early recognized in the House and later led to his appointment as a member of the powerful House Appropriations Committee. He is now Dean of the Arkansas delegation and Assistant Whip of his party.

Dave Terry The Public Official

EDUCATION

A famous American writer said recently: "Money spent for the education of our children is not spent—it is saved for the future."

Dave Terry has been editorially described as "The School Congressman." His record extends back to the General Assembly in 1933 when he was one of a handful of members in the House who voted against abolition of the county superintendent system; to Congress in 1934 when in his maiden speech he advocated Federal aid to our schools; during depression days when he secured $2,000,000 to pay salaries of rural teachers in Arkansas; to 1941 when he introduced in the House a measure to grant Federal aid to states to assist persons whose educational qualifications did not extend past the fourth grade. He is recognized as one of our national education champions in Congress.

Many other accomplishments of Dave Terry in the educational field could be cited but Howard A. Dawson, of Little Rock, who is now Director of Rural Service for the National Education Association in

Congressman

David D. TERRY

Candidate for UNITED STATES SENATE

The Voters Throughout Arkansas Are Convinced That Dave Terry Will Be in the Run-off and Then Elected United States Senator

TERRY CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

—Paid Political Advt.

Washington, D. C., sums up the attitude of educational leaders when he said: "I shall support Mr. Terry in every way I can in his race for the Senate. As a school man and as a past president of the Arkansas Education Association I feel that I would be ungrateful if I did not do so."

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

Dave Terry might well be called one of the "fathers" of Rural Electrification which has provided modern comforts and conveniences to thousands of Arkansas farm homes. The REA was created by Congress in 1935. Mr. Terry at that time was a member of the Inter-state Commerce Committee of the House of Representatives which reported out the bill and passed it.

As a member of the Appropriations Sub-Committee for Agriculture, Mr. Terry and the seven other members of the Committee pass on all appropriations for continuation of the REA. The records show that he has regularly voted increases for its expansion.

FLOOD CONTROL AND POWER DAMS

Mr. Terry's stand on flood control and power dams is equally well known. Although he has consistently supported projects of this nature, he has just as consistently held that where economically feasible they should be dual purpose dams. He is unwilling to sacrifice flood control, which is of immense value to Arkansas farmers, for power alone.

He was a member of Congress in 1938 when that body passed the bill authorizing Norfolk, Blue Mountain, and Nimrod Dams and other similar projects in the Arkansas and White River Valley basins.

As a member of the Appropriations Sub-Committee for the War Department he passes on all appropriations for flood control and power dams. Major General Reybold, Chief of Army Engineers, formerly stationed in Little Rock, in a letter to Mr. Terry dated July 28, 1940, said:

"With the leadership and interest which you have personally displayed, I feel sure that this great work will continue through the years to the final result of providing economic and highly essential navigation, flood control, power and related facilities for the over-all development of the water resources of the Southwestern Region."

AGRICULTURE

Proclaiming one's self to be the farmer's friend is one thing in politics. Proving it is another. By every act of his official life, Dave Terry has shown himself to be a real friend, both to the small and the large farmer. This campaign is typical of his sincerity. While his opponents have been campaigning, he has remained in Washington working for full parity payments on farm products.

The future is too uncertain to make predictions. It is not too uncertain, however, for Dave Terry to pledge his active support to vital legislation necessary to our future security. First of all must come vital needs of our armed forces; after victory, proper measures for rehabilitation for the millions of men now in our armed forces. Flood control, power dams, and soil conservation must be

As ranking member of the Appropriations Sub-Committee for Agriculture, he passes on funds for benefits to agriculture as a whole and to the farmer in particular. He has consistently advocated and worked for adequate appropriations for Soil Conservation Service, REA, Farm Security Administration, Forestry Service, AAA, Extension Service, Bureau of Home Economics, and other agencies dealing with agricultural problems.

WAR DEPARTMENT

He is ranking member of the War Department Appropriations Committee. In this capacity he passes on appropriations for the Army. He knows the plans, the objectives, and problems of the Army. The welfare of over 52,000 patriotic men of Arkansas now in service and that of 50,000 more to go within a few months, will be uppermost in his mind.

(Mr. Terry's oldest son is now a pilot in the Army Air Corps.)

The people of Arkansas are thinking about this election — more than any other in recent political history. They know the man they send to the Senate will help map the nation's all-out effort for successful conclusion of the war. They know that he will help make the peace that will follow. They know that war, peace, and post-war economic adjustment must be in the hands of experienced, capable, and dependable men. And they know that Dave Terry is that man. On his experience and record he solicits your vote and active support.

The United States Senate must pass on all treaties made by the President, must protect American sovereignty and guarantee that this nation shall retain its place as a dominant world power. World peace must be stabilized and maintained. As United States Senator, Dave Terry will work untiringly to bring about these democratic objectives.
